THE 6 WS OF RESEARCH

HOW

Looking for an opportunity to share and develop research ideas in a supportive environment, get feedback from mentors who are senior members within the tourism research community and explore issues related to publishing, methodologies, and research practicalities? This is the event for you!

On May 16th, 2017, the Department of Economics, Management, Industrial Engineering and Tourism, in cooperation with GOVCOPP Research Unit, is organising a day-long interactive PhD Workshop. We invite PhD students at all stages (i.e. beginning as well as nearly finishing) and emerging researchers to participate in this unique event.

The PhD Workshop will have the innovative dyadic format of: (i) a roundtable on the '6W's of research', where each researcher will briefly present his/her work (5 minutes with the visual aid of up to three slides) to experts who will provide constructive advice (English and Portuguese available sessions), followed by (ii) three interactive workshops on: Research Hacks, Innovative Methodologies and Publishing 'Top Tips'.

The PhD Workshop will feature two inspiring keynotes by exceptional and world-recognized academics: Professor John Tribe (University of Surrey, UK) and Professor Chris Cooper (Oxford Brookes University, UK).

Furthermore, the PhD Workshop presents an exceptional opportunity for young researchers to improve their research skills and network in a relaxed environment.

Registration is free of charge, but the number of participants is limited. Participants need to register by 1st February 2017, and submit a structured abstract using the template provided in order to guarantee their place on the workshop.
